3 Credit CMTE Training

Saturday, December 4, 2021 / 9:00am - 11:50 a.m. (EST)

TRAINING TITLE: Creative Recovery Action Plan for Self Care

INSTRUCTOR: Alison Hughey, MT-BC

ABSTRACT: Music therapists often enter the field in part because of a deep love of music, but can struggle to maintain that personal relationship while facing times of increased stress. This CMTE focuses on practical ways in which participants can reconnect to their creative outlets, such as music, for mental health self care. The framework for this course is inspired by the Wellness Recovery Action Plan (developed by Copeland and Winterling).

There will be two, ten-minute breaks scheduled around lectures and experiential components. Having access to colored writing utensils and paper, source of song lyrics and preferred music recordings may be further helpful though not required. Attendees will be asked to prioritize music based self care approaches, and make a plan for building positive self care habits (CBMT Certification Domain A.1.), explore how consistent self care habits build upon their therapeutic effectiveness, (CBMT Certification Domain A.6.) and learn ways to monitor and seek support for their mental health (CBMT Certification Domain B.12).

This interactive workshop is open to individuals who identify with being creative and expressive during their work life. Focus themes will include: self-care, stress management and exploring one's mood & musical preferences. This professional course will occur live on Saturday, December 4, 2021 from 9am - 12pm with a recording available for those that are unavailable for the synchronous, virtual opportunity. Though individuals who are not music therapists may enroll in this course, completion of this 3 credit CMTE does not ensure that the participant is currently a Board-Certified Music Therapist (MT-BC). Verify music therapy board certification status and eligibility at: www.cbmt.org.

There is no prerequisite to attend this course. Students/interns are welcomed to learn with music therapists.

Creative Recovery Action Plan for Self Care is approved by the Certification Board for Music Therapists (CBMT) for 3 Continuing Music Therapy Education credits.
